Skills for Work: Shaping the Future of Occupational Standards

Occupational standards are at the heart of England's technical education system, helping to ensure training meets employer needs. The Skills for Work programme, led by our Board Chair Phil Smith, is considering how the standards and the products they underpin, are fit for the future, meet employer need, equip people for good jobs and careers and support the devolution agenda.

Skills England

As part of this work, Skills England are asking for your views on how occupational standards and the products they underpin can better support learners, employers and local economies.

You can contribute via the form here.

Why your contribution matters

Employers' views are needed to shape a stronger, future-ready occupational standards system. Thank you for your continued engagement and we look forward to hearing from you.
